The Bill for the Encouragement of the Fine Arts.

George R. McKee has repeatedly stated the well known and admitted fact that the Democratic Clerks of the House of Representatives of the last General Assembly were incompetent to the proper discharge of their duties, and brought up as proof that three assistant Clerks were obliged to be appointed, at an additional cost to the State of more than $1,000. He has also stated that the Clerks of the House of Representatives enrolled a bill that did not pass the Legislature. We made the same statement soon after the close of the session of the Legislature, and it has never been contradicted until recently, when an anonymous scribbler has written a letter to the Louisville Courier, denying the charge, and traducing the Clerks of the American Senate. As we were, probably, Mr. McKee's authority for the statement which he made, it is but right that we should give the facts of the case. Speaking of the bill for the encouragement of the fine arts, the correspondent of the Courier says:

The bill was reported from the Judiciary Committee by Mr. Ripley, a Know Nothing. See Senate Journal 1857-8, page 653, which passed almost unanimously by the Senate.

The bill was sent immediately to the lower House, and was there defeated by a vote of 41 to 16. [See House Journal, page 650.] The bill was then reported back to the Senate by one of the Clerks of the lower House immediately, as having been rejected by that House. [See Senate Journal, page 668.] And the next we see of the bill, is that it was reported by the assistant Secretary of State to the Senate, signed and approved by the Governor. [See Senate Journal, page 676.] Everybody knows that, according to the rules of the Legislature, each bill that is passed has to be signed, first by the Speaker of the House in which it originated; and as this bill originated in the Senate, where the Speaker and Clerks were all Know Nothings, and was returned back to the Senate by a Democratic Clerk as having been rejected by the lower House, who, in all good conscience, is to blame, if any blame can be attached to it? Is it the Clerks of the lower House? These inefficient men he speaks of—or is it the infallible Clerks of the Senate? that he thinks are so competent. Why every body knows that it was the Clerks of the Senate. I do not attribute any dishonesty or incompetency to them, for I am fully satisfied that the Speaker and Clerks of the Senate are competent officers, and high minded and honorable gentlemen, and are incapable of doing an act, intentionally, that would be in the slightest degree censurable. I know them all, and know them to be perfect gentlemen; and the same with equal propriety can be said of the Speaker and Clerks of the lower House. I, therefore, conclude in my mind that, in the hurry and bustle of business, it being the last day of the session, the bill referred to was enrolled by the Clerks of the Senate, or some person for them, through a mistake, and not done intentionally.

As stated in the above extract, the bill was first passed by the Senate, on the 16th of February. The bill was then taken and enrolled. It was not enrolled by either of the Clerks of the Senate, nor by their employees, nor by their friends, nor by any one having any connection, immediate or remote, directly or indirectly, with them or their duties as Clerks of the Senate. It is true that it is the duty of the Clerks of each branch of the General Assembly to enroll the acts of the Legislature which have originated in the house in which they are employed, but as the bill referred to never was passed by the Legislature the American Clerks of the Senate, who knew their business and attended to it, never enrolled the bill; nor was it enrolled with their knowledge or sanction.

After the bill had passed the Senate it was taken to the House of Representatives by a member of that body and was enrolled and signed by the Speaker of the House before it was brought before the House for action. Whether it was enrolled by the Clerks of the House, individually or not, we cannot say; but as it was the business of no one else to do so, we take it for granted that it was enrolled by them or their employees. Certain it is, that it was enrolled in the House of Representatives and was presented to the Speaker of that body, who signed it before the House acted upon it. The House subsequently rejected the bill. When the bill was read to the House by the Clerk, Dr. White observed, in a tone loud enough to be heard by those around him, that he had already signed such a bill. Although the bill had been rejected by the House, it was nevertheless carried back to the Speaker of the Senate, signed by the Speaker of the House as a certificate that it had passed that body, and of course the Speaker of the Senate had nothing to do but sign it and hand it to the committee of Enrollments, who forwarded it to the Governor—by whom it was approved. Subsequently to Speaker White and Speaker King having signed the bill, it was reported to the Senate as having been rejected by the House; and subsequently to that, Governor Morehead sent notice to the Senate that he had approved it.

It is not true, as stated by the correspondent of the Courier, that every bill has to be signed by the Speaker of the body in which it originated, before it is signed by the presiding officer of the other house. Every bill, whether it originates in the Senate or in the House, is first signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The Courier's correspondent does not understand what he writes about.

The British Outrages.

We have been unable, from the start, to discover any sensible or sufficient reason for the exceeding great clamor for war with Great Britain, which seems to have filled the patriotic bosoms of our wise men at Washington, and to have set the entire press of the country to writing up a state of feeling by no means desirable. That British men of war have, through the recklessness and arrogance of their officers and sometimes on account of the perverseness and foolhardiness of American merchantmen, been guilty of some outrages upon our commerce, we suppose is undoubtedly true; but it is reasonable to suppose from the ostensibly friendly relations existing between the two countries that these acts are unauthorized by the British Government and will be discontinued. There never has been any reasonable ground for doubt that Great Britain would make ample apologies for the abuse of the right, which has been and is concurred in by all civilized nations and which is absolutely essential to the protection of commerce against the outrages and felonious acts of pirates,—nor that she would cheerfully pay any just damages sustained by our merchantmen from her cruisers. This being done, and, as we have already said, there never has been a question but that it would be cheerfully and willingly done, pray, what reasonable pretext does there remain for a declaration of war?

According to the laws of nations every man of war is obliged to show his colors at his head mast; and as a necessary and legitimate corollary, every merchant vessel is obliged to show at her head mast the colors of the nation to which she really belongs, whenever a man of war belonging to the navy of another nation heaves in sight. We apprehend that no one will dispute this position, the right of a man of war to see the colors of a merchant vessel. This being conceded, it follows, as a matter of course, that the right of a man of war to ascertain as nearly as possible, whether or not the colors which a merchant vessel hoists are really the colors which rightfully belong to her, must be admitted;—or, otherwise, the right to see her colors at all is empty and useless. This, we understand, is all that Great Britain claims as a right, and she claims it justly. The assertion of the right of visit is merely the assertion of the right of a man-of-war to see whether or not a merchant vessel's papers correspond with her flag; and to deny this right, to say that the mere fact of a ship's having the American flag flying at her headmast is a sufficient protection against the right of visit, is giving a protection and immunity to pirates and outlaws, which it is extremely unsafe to extend. Great Britain can and probably will apologise for any abuse of the right of visit which her officers may have been guilty, but to apologise for the exercise of the right itself is a humiliation to which she never will and never ought to submit. How can she apologise for doing what she claims to have a right to do? And would it not be foolish to fight with Great Britain for the assertion of an abstract right, which all other nations concede to her and which she merely exercises in order to suppress what the laws of the United States brand as piracy?

THE CADETS' MONUMENT.—On Wednesday last the corps of Cadets of the Kentucky Military Institute, having on the day before celebrated their commencement, marched from their encampment near town to lay the corner-stone of a monument in memory of their comrades who have died while members of the institution.

The funds on which the enterprise, so noble in itself and so indicative of the generous spirit which pervades the College, is founded, are the voluntary contributions of the Cadets to the memory of their fellow-colleagues, and to raise the requisite sum to guarantee the success of this noble object the corps unanimously resolved to appropriate to the monument all of the money necessary to carry out their intended expedition to the Mammoth Cave. Twelve hundred dollars have been in this way contributed to the monument. The Cadets, who have sacrificed their immediate pleasure to the nobler and more lasting gratification of honoring and perpetuating the names and virtues of their deceased fellow students, must feel an honest pride in the interest manifested by our citizens in their object and the unimpaired applause which it commands from every one.

The corner-stone was laid at noon; the ceremony being preceded by an appropriate though brief address by the Rev. John N. Norton, who fills the chair of Belles Lettres in the faculty of the Institute. The exercises were concluded by volleys of musketry over the ground, when the Cadets returned to their camp and were formally disbanded for the vacation.

The situation of the monument (facing Boone's mound and to the north of it) will lend great effect to a tasteful work of art—such as the taste and judgment of Col. Morgan, the superintendent, will authorize those who feel an interest in the adornment of our cemetery to expect, and as we are confident the Cadets' Monument will be.

GODEY'S LADY BOOK for July has been laid on our table by our friends KEENON & CRUTCHER; it is filled, as usual, with handsome engravings, patterns, interesting tales, &c. We believe the ladies are partial to Godey's Book. Call and buy a copy for your wife, sister or sweetheart.

Reception of Mr. Crittenden.

The people everywhere are making preparations to testify their appreciation of the gallant conduct of our distinguished Senator in the contest of the right against sectional bitterness and executive favors. In Cincinnati a committee of fifty of the most influential citizens of that city, without distinction of party, have been appointed to receive him and accompany him to Covington, where extensive preparations have been made to welcome him. Lexington, too, has come forward, and will celebrate his arrival in that city by a grand procession. Louisville has extended to him an invitation to address the people of that city.—Frankfort should not be lagging in doing honor to him who is her pride and ornament.

SINGULAR ECONOMY.—The Democratic majority in the House of Representatives of the last General Assembly of Kentucky refused to pay some two or three hundred dollars for the purpose of printing the report of the State Agricultural Society. This looked like economy in public expenditures, and, doubtless, Democratic organs will boast of it as such. But the cost of the Clerk hire for this same Democratic House of Representatives was upwards of a thousand dollars more than it had ever been before—more than enough to pay for the printing of the report three times over. This sort of public economy may look very well to the Democracy, but we apprehend that the farmers of Kentucky, whose interests are vitally concerned in the success of the State Agricultural Society, and in the dissemination of the information obtained by that useful body, will take quite a different view of the matter. We recommend this item particularly to the editor of the Mountain Democrat.

JOHN J. CRITTENDEN.—The Philadelphia News says that the noble stand which Crittenden, Bell and that little band of Southern Americans took in opposition to the dictation of Buchanan, and in defense of true principles, during the Kansas struggle, appears to be appreciated everywhere. A number of papers have already signified a wish to make Crittenden the candidate for the Presidency, which shall break down Locofocoism in 1860. A paper in Illinois has already hoisted the banner, "Crittenden and Everett," and many others think that such a ticket would be irresistible. We think it would make a pretty "tall team" to drive over the next Presidential course.

THE GERMAN RICK, whom Lewis Marshall shot, near St. Louis, will probably recover.—Lewis Marshall has been admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000, on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

John Marshall was, at last accounts, lying exceedingly low, and will probably die of his wounds. Roll, who shot him, is still in confinement.

A Mr. Albert E. Brown gives, in a letter to the editor of the Southern Yeoman, the reasons why he is a Democrat. He says he is a Democrat because he believes Democratic principles to be true. If he will now define what Democratic principles are, we will have a tolerable solution of the mystery; for it is the greatest of mysteries to us how any sensible and honest man can belong to the Democratic party.

We once heard of an old countryman who, upon being asked what sort of a Democrat he was, replied that he was a "Jeffersonian Democrat." "Why are you a Jeffersonian Democrat?" was the next question. "Because I believe in the principles that Jefferson believed in," was the reply. "What did Jefferson believe in?" "Jefferson," why, Jefferson believed in what I believe." "Well, what is that?" "Oh, Lord, stranger, don't ask so many hard questions; you're too hard for me, this time," was the rejoinder. How many men in the country are in a similar category.

Read Humphrey Marshall's speech published in another column. It is a bold and complete vindication of the American party against the false charges which fall so repeatedly from the lips of Sag-Nicht croakers.

TRIAL OF CHAMP FOR RAPE.—The trial of Robert H. Champ, accused of committing a rape upon Mrs. Sallie B. Champ, the widow of his brother, took place on Monday last, before an examining court, composed of Eqs. Lincoln and Terry. He was proven to be worth $40,000, and bail was required to the amount of $15,000, his brothers in law, the Congletons, going on his bond. Mrs. Champ was brought into the court on a couch, the case having been put off Friday in consequence of her inability to attend. The wealth and high social position of the parties attracted an immense crowd to witness the trial. Fearing the relatives of Mrs. Champ might deal summarily with the prisoner if released in the crowd, it was announced that he had failed to give bail, and the sheriff started off with him in the direction of the jail, where he drove off in a buggy with his son. His attorney had previously applied to the Judge for a guard for the jail, but he did not consider he had authority to grant one.

It was proven and admitted by Mrs. Champ, that a Gipsy a short time since foretold that she was to be ruined by her brother in law. Mrs. Champ also dreamed the night before the occurrence that she was dressed in a white gown and that Champ stabbed her. She had persons upon examining the house during the night. It is not our intention to give the evidence in the case as the regular trial is set for the second week in July.—Pulaski Flag.

COUNTERFEITS ON THE OHIO STATE BANK.—The Cincinnati Gazette of Wednesday says:

Impressions of the new counterfeit of the denomination of $10 on the State Bank of Ohio, the issue of which has heretofore been noticed, were quite freely circulated on Third Street Monday and yesterday. This is pronounced by experienced and competent judges the best executed and most dangerous counterfeit now in circulation. It is almost an exact imitation of the genuine and even bank tellers have been deceived by it. It was taken on deposit at one of our leading houses on Monday. The shading of the line "State Bank of Ohio" is slightly darker in the counterfeit than in the genuine bill; and the name of the president is rather more regularly written in the former than in the latter.

In the counterfeit, the letters of the president's name are rounded off rather more carefully than in the genuine and the main lines are heavier in the latter than in the former, but these differences are so slight that ordinary judges would not notice them. People who are not expert would not be safe in taking bills of this denomination or any of the branches of the State Bank of Ohio. The country will undoubtedly be flooded with them. Several have been sent here, already, from New York, where they were received as genuine. Refuse all notes of $10 on the branches of the State Bank of Ohio. The plates of this bank from $1 up to $20 have now been counterfeited, and in all cases the spurious engravings have been well executed.

WASHINGTON, June 13.

The difficulty between Senators Wilson and Gwin has been adjusted. On a refusal to make any acknowledgments it was proposed by Mr. Wilson's friends to refer the subject to Senators Crittenden, Seward, and Davis, to which Mr. Wilson assented. Those gentlemen last night drew a statement in which they say that the remarks of Mr. Gwin implied unworthy motives to Mr. Wilson, and although generally were objectionable and unparliamentary, and yet they by no means justify or warrant Mr. W. in using the very opprobrious epithet with which he retaliated. After stating other things in connection, they add, we are possessed of a fact which is indeed apparent on the face of the reported debate, that Mr. Wilson in using the epithet employed did not impute anything against the personal integrity or honor of Mr. Gwin.

With this disclaimer adopted by Mr. W. we hold that Mr. G. is bound to withdraw the disrespectful language in which he replied to Mr. W. and a withdrawal from Mr. G. shall be deemed to have been made by them respectively, they shall have expressed in writing their assent to this report. Messrs. Gwin and Wilson signed it late last night.

A GOOD ENGLISH BOY ON HORSE RACING.

The Rev. W. Brookfield was conducting the examination of a school, and requested one of the most intelligent boys to write down a description of a race horse. The boy wrote as follows:

"The race horse is a noble animal, used very cruel by gentlemen. Races are very bad places. None but wicked people know anything about races. The last Derby was won by Mr. L'Anson's Blink Bonny, a beautiful filly by Melbourne, rising four. The odds were twenty to one against her; thirty started, and she won by a neck."

DIED.

At his residence, in Woodford county, on the 11th of June, JAMES D. BAOWN, in the 74th year of his age. He had lived his three score years and ten; had been a faithful and efficient member of Clear Creek Baptist Church for 36 years; he was a good Christian, kind and affectionate neighbor and father; always living in peace and quiet, and has now gone to Heaven to enjoy that bliss which is alone reserved for those that love God.

John M. Nicholson is about 6 feet high; about 62 or 63 years of age; has a scar on one of his eyebrows, and the fore finger of one of his hands is entirely off.
Francis M. Nicholson is about 22 or 23 years of age, and is the son of John M. Nicholson. His beard is inclined to be sandy, and has a bad look out of his eyes—they appear to be somewhat crossed.

PROSPECTUS
GLASGOW FREE PRESS.
GLASGOW, KY., December 23, 1857.
Dear Sir:—Having disposed of our Printing Office in Elizabethtown, Ky., and removed to Glasgow with the view of permanently locating we purpose commencing the publication of a newspaper sometime during the month of February, to be entitled "THE GLASGOW FREE PRESS." It will be devoted to General Literature, Political Agriculture, the Arts and Sciences, News, and especially to the promotion and advancement of the local and general interests of the town and county. Those political creeds, opinions, or systems, on our part, will be intermitted to secure due consideration for all local enterprises, that may be calculated to advance the general welfare of the community.
An earnest effort will be made to render it a valuable family newspaper, acceptable to all parties, combining a variety of interesting and instructive subjects in its columns. Having had considerable experience in the business, and being practically familiar with its mechanical duties, we indulge the hope that we shall be enabled to submit to some extent the interests to which the "Free Press" will be dedicated.
American Politics at the present time, may be said very justly, to be in a chrysalis state. We do not design in this Prospectus, to enter the domain of speculation. It is not necessary to the present purpose, or to define our political position. This may be defined very briefly. We are conscientiously opposed to the practices and the precepts of Modern Democracy. We regard the Democratic party, as now constituted, essentially an alien party, and consider its aims, its principles, as avowed by its organs, preached by its leaders, and developed in the present administration, pregnant with evil to the Union, in violation of the plain injunctions of the early fathers, and disastrous to American Nationality. We recognize in the "Address of the American People," promulgated at the Louisville Convention, the declaration of the rights of man, as a principle of conservatism, and peculiarly adapted to present exigencies. We believe that in the fundamental principles of our organization may be found the basis for a more just and equitable system of government, for a more proper respect for the opinions of others, whose convictions may lead them to differ with us. It is the peculiarity and the boast of American institutions, that they secure to each and every one the right of an untrammelled expression of his opinions. In no other government is this perfect freedom of opinion in the citizen secured, and this is the basis of our dignity as a State. Our whole system of government reposes upon this basis. Public opinion is here at once the source and the support of power. We cherish an appreciation of the great principle, and we are unwilling to refuse to others what we are prompt to claim for ourselves. Hence the columns of the "Free Press" will be devoted to the discussion of all subjects of public interest, and we invite the citizens of Glasgow and surrounding counties, and especially those whose opinions may harmonize with the general views herein expressed.
We send you this circular, hoping that you may feel inclined to give us the benefit of your influence, in procuring a list of subscribers in your locality, by the 1st day of February, 1858.

TERMS.
The "Free Press" will be published weekly, on new calendar type, at the following rates:—
Single copy, one year, (invariably in advance), - - - $2.00
To clubs of 10, and upwards, - - - 1.50
If any one procuring a club of Ten subscribers, will receive an extra copy.

PROSPECTUS
PUBLISHED IN LEBANON, KY.
Lebanon, since the completion of the Railroad, connecting it with Louisville, is a point of interest to a large section of country. There are hundreds of persons abroad who are in want of information upon various topics connected with it, such as the prices of current commodities for doing and having business done here, &c., and the citizens of Lebanon themselves, wish to inform the public at large, that it is one of the most important and flourishing towns in the interior of the State, and that it offers great inducements as a place of residence for men of almost every trade and profession.
To supply these wants, of people abroad and citizens at home, we have determined to publish "The Central Kentuckian"—a paper devoted to the Commercial, Agricultural, Literary, and Moral welfare of the community in which it is circulated.
It is hoped that we shall be able, by attention to the interest of all concerned, to supply a desideratum long felt.
Citizens of Lebanon, and of Marion and surrounding counties, who, of whatever political party or religious sect we look for support—and the more liberal that is, the larger and more entertaining will be our paper—for we are determined, if you will place in our hands the means, to make the Central Kentuckian worthy of your patronage.
To obtain this, however, we shall not sacrifice independence by pledging ourselves to any party or sect, yet we shall promise you "Neutrality in Politics," if we are not capable of choosing our subject matter, and of commenting upon all or any topic of public interest, in a manner which shall be above reproach, and inoffensive, we ought not to come before you as Editors. To be faithful journals of passing events—candid critics of public acts—and successful advocates of Truth, is the right of our ambition.
TERMS:—$1.50 in advance; $2.00 in six months. No deduction made on clubs. Return the list of names as soon as possible, and we shall issue the first number on Wednesday, the 27th.
